Second Sunday in Ordinary Time B

January 18, 2015

This week's readings are about the Call, hearing and responding. Firstly little Samuel is called so persistently by the Lord, nagged really, but needed blind, old and wise Eli to give meaning to the call, an interpretation. Without Eli maybe God's voice would not have been heard and Samuel would not have grown to be the powerful figure in the Old Testament. The call in John's gospel has the same elements, someone to interpret and someone called. John the Baptist is the interpreter who had been prepared for this role for all time. He recognises and knows Jesus as the Lamb of God, the Saviour, the long awaited Messiah and announces that fact to the two who would listen. But how could one tell? Jesus challenged them with the tantalising question what was their longing? and they replied wanting to know where he lived. It was when they entered that space with Jesus that they answered the call. What is a call? It was a word that we used to describe Vocations to Religious life and priesthood, which left the rest of us of the hook but did it? A call is to become a more authentic being, at one with God, compassionate to others, contributing to the good of all. In this way the kingdom of God can exist. Andrew and Peter met Jesus, spent time with Jesus, possibly ate with him and shared that vision. It was a call that was to take them from the fishing nets of Lake Galilee and into the world of seeing all as people that matter, absolutely; and into the world of politics both church and state.

So for us as Christians and in the light of recent world events where people have translated calls to authenticity in a brutal and barbarous manner, we can also see that this is not God's way. Our gentle God is a God of love. Our God is also a God of action, direct action to the poor, the needy, the stolen and the grieving.

St Vincent de Paul who went and met Jesus and was changed in his call spoke

"From all eternity God has his thoughts and designs on you...." 13 Feb 1646

We are all instrumental in bringing Jesus to life, maybe as an interpreter or maybe as a receiver of the call.

Evangelii Gaudium

"Sometimes it is a matter of hearing the cry of entire peoples, the poorest people of the earth...we must never forget that the planet belongs to all mankind and is meant for all mankind; the mere fact that some people are born in places with fewer resources or less development does not justify the fact that they are living with less dignity...We need to grow in a solidarity which 'would allow all peoples to become artisans of their own destiny', since every person is called to self-fulfilment."

Par 190 from Evangelii Gaudium, Pope Francis, Nov. 24, 2013
